4m Appoint New MD and move premises

Specialist contractor 4m Flooring UK has recently appointed David Roache as Managing Director. David has an extensive background in accountancy and financial directorship in British industry.

The company are also moving from Crewe, where they had outgrown their base of 10 years, to the High Carr Business Park, Newcastle as space restrictions at the Thomas Street head office meant that the company was spread across three different buildings.

David Roache, 4m's Managing Director, said: "The new location combines office space and warehousing and allows 4m to consolidate our three sites into one. These new premises will give us better working conditions and, having the stock on site, will make our controls more efficient."

4m is part of the J & S Seddon group and carries out commercial flooring projects across a range of industries including, including the food, pharmaceutical and defence sectors.

Clients also include major sporting venues, the City of Manchester Stadium and the O2 Arena.
