Altroflow and Altro Sportflex used in award winning Nike Office

AltroFlow and Altro Sportflex have been used to breathtaking effect in Nike's award winning London office and showroom.

Project designers Jump Studios specified light blue AltroFlow resin flooring for many of the public areas of Nike's innovative new offices, whilst Altro Sportflex has been used to create an athletics track effect in other areas. By combining Altro products with other design elements, including prints and custom furniture, Jump Studios has created an exciting and stimulating office and showroom environment. Designers have used glass and plastics to create a high gloss effect in the public areas, and AltroFlow allowed them to continue this theme on the floor.

"AltroFlow was exactly what we were looking for," explained Sean Pearson of Jump Studios. "It offered a super high gloss finish, high durability and fitted in with the rest of the design. When it came to creating a track effect, Altro Mondo Sportflex was the natural choice because we knew that we would get excellent service from both Altro and their installers. We are very happy with the finished product; the Altro flooring looks fantastic and really adds a lot to the overall project."
