Flowcrete – Taking Transformation To New Levels In Education

Specialist flooring company Flowcrete has developed a comprehensive brochure aimed at the education sector.

Entitled 'Transforming Education Environments' the guide brings together a broad range of information - including details on sustainability and sector specific case studies showcasing flooring projects across the UK .

Information on the specification of floors within the different areas of a school environment - from food preparation areas to classrooms and changing rooms to science labs - is also featured.

Alan Dean, sales director of Flowcrete UK, said: "This brochure offers a broad range of information for specifiers involved in the modernisation of UK schools in a unique format, covering a wide variety of detail in a comprehensive manner.

"Through our extensive portfolio of products, manufactured in Britain, we have flooring solutions that meet the functional requirements of educational environments.

"Ultimately, a Flowcrete floor transforms educational environments and creates a motivational effect for staff and pupils alike."

Within the education sector, Flowcrete offers its unique Floorzone concept, which involves the installation of acoustic system, underfloor heating, floor screed and seamless floor finish, all carried out by one highly trained Flowcrete approved flooring contractor on site.
