

“John Lord Floors new Scheff Foods Facility”

Birmingham based food manufacturer, Scheff Foods Ltd, recently moved into their new purpose-built factory in Smethwick. The move came about after increased demand for their range of ready-meal and unique pastry buffet products, necessitating an up-scale from their original facility in Tyldesley.

John Lord was asked to supply and install the resin flooring, stainless steel drainage and kerbing after having completed a successful installation in their former factory in 1996. Working alongside Project Managers, Foodesco Ltd, John Lord installed over 800m<sup>2</sup> of their heavy-duty Uragard HT urethane resin flooring system to meet the requirements of slip-resistance, chemical and temperature resistance, and hygiene.

With hygiene and food safety of paramount importance in the design of the new factory, specific high care, medium care and low care areas were created, to minimise any risk of cross-contamination. Three different colours of Uragard flooring and associated coving were used to designate these different areas within the factory.
