RSL provide floor to last a Millennium

Resin Surfaces Limited (RSL) has supplied a high quality flooring product for the Water Margin, a popular Chinese restaurant in the O2 Arena, London, laid by Datum Flooring, the UK's largest independent resin flooring contractor.

Water Margin provides diners with a traditional all-you-can-eat buffet in a stylish modern atmosphere with clean Oriental lines. The restaurant needed a steam cleanable, hygienic, non-slip and user-friendly flooring solution, which was safe for a catering environment and met the colour and texture profile that would fit in with the rest of the eatery.

Datum Industrial Flooring Limited laid RSL's popular Resuthane TG69, a water-based polyurethane resin screed designed to provide excellent heavy-duty usage with resistance to thermal shock, abrasion and chemical attack.

Dick Lovegrove, managing director at Datum Industrial Flooring said: "Water Margin needed a flooring product that could stand up to the everyday pressures of a busy kitchen, and Resuthane TG69 fit the criteria perfectly.

"It is a resilient and good-looking product that really does the job they need it to, being easy to keep clean and hygienic for an environment where food is prepared."

Ivy Wroe, managing director of RSL, said: "Water Margin is a great business, already having three restaurants in Portsmouth, Harlow and London, and I'm delighted that they chose RSL for the flooring products. Working with Datum Industrial Flooring is always a pleasure, and I look forward to building even further on our already strong relationship in the future."
