

Technical and hazardous waste

Your waste management experts

Leave it to the experts

Do you know your jet-vac tankers from your conventional tankers, or your interceptors from your gully suckers?

Choosing the right solution for your technical and hazardous waste requirements can be a complex task.

We don't expect you to be an expert, which is why Reconomy offers a fully managed service for the collection and disposal of technical and hazardous waste materials. We remove the confusion and give peace of mind that your business is environmentally compliant.

Simply tell us what type of waste you have and we will find the best possible solution to remove and safely dispose of it quickly, efficiently and cost-effectively.

Safe removal and disposal

Whatever waste streams you have, we will ensure that they are handled correctly and disposed of safely.

We will also endeavour to recycle as much of your waste as possible. Some of the many types of technical and hazardous waste we can help you with include:

Asbestos

Batteries

Contaminated materials

Clinical waste

Gas bottles

Japanese knotweed

Paints and aerosols

Resin and mastic

Septic waste

Soils

Tyres

WEEE waste

Site clearances

Correctly disposing of the many waste streams encountered during a site clearance is a daunting prospect. We can project manage the entire process for you, from initial site survey to removal, and have experience dealing with all types of clearances:
